

hi - i now live in new york state, which has a do not call list. i still receive a couple unsolicited calls a month.

however, when i lived in new jersey (2 years ago), we had to get caller ID because of the number of unsolicited calls. i work from home, and these calls were hampering my ability to conduct my business (online). we would receive pre-recorded telemarketing calls, and the phone company would tell us we couldn't get the telemarketers' phone numbers.

i wish telemarketers would go away, and never exist. they steal my time, my energies, and detract from my ability to earn a living. fortunately, again, i'm now in a state which has the law (although certain telemarketers try to get around it). i encourage you to ignore the special interest groups that just want to hamper the individual, and enact a national DNC list.
